

KPMG LLP (KPMG) is currently seeking high-performing freshmen and sophomore students in a business curriculum who have demonstrated—and continue to demonstrate—a commitment to diversity and are interested in future opportunities at KPMG through participation in our exciting Future Diversity Leaders program.

KPMG LLP, the audit, tax and advisory firm (www.us.kpmg.com), is the U.S. member firm of KPMG International Cooperative (“KPMG International”). KPMG International’s member firms have 145,000 professionals, including more than 8,000 partners, in 152 countries.

When is the Leadership Conference?

The program will be held Monday, July 16, through Wednesday, July 18, in Hollywood, CA. KPMG will cover approved travel, lodging, and meal expenses.

How do I apply?

Participation in KPMG’s Future Diversity Leaders program begins with being nominated by your faculty adviser. To be considered for this program, you must have a cumulative grade point average of 3.5 or higher and be interested in pursuing a career in business. In addition, you must submit a completed program application form, along with your résumé and a current transcript, to your FDL adviser.

Your FDL adviser will review your documents and make the determination as to whether or not to nominate you for the program. The application deadline is February 17, 2012. KPMG will review all recommended applications, and students will be selected for on-campus interviews. All decisions regarding participants selected for the program will be made by March 30, 2012.

My FDL experience was wonderful! I had high expectations coming into the program, and I was not disappointed. From traveling to Hollywood, to meeting my fellow FDL stars, and even interacting with the dedicated people of KPMG, I was able to obtain an unforgettable experience.

The diversity panel was extremely informative, and I could see how sincerely committed KPMG is to diversity. The team-building and leadership sessions taught me more about myself, both as part of a team and as a leader; thus motivating me to be a better team player and leader.

The best part of FDL was that it was not all work. I had opportunities to interact with my fellow stars through the scavenger hunt in Hollywood and our other explorations of the city. When it was time to leave, it felt like I had known most of them forever.

I am especially grateful to KPMG for giving me the opportunity to be part of something so amazing. I continue to apply all that I learned from my FDL experience, especially from the leadership sessions, to my life. More than anything, I am glad for all the friends I made through FDL.

What is the Future Diversity Leaders program all about?

KPMG's Future Diversity Leaders (FDL) program is a structured leadership development and scholarship program for qualified college students in business curriculums. Participants receive both financial support and "professional" support through mentoring relationships with FDL faculty advisers and KPMG professionals. The FDL program represents a multiyear commitment to participants and can result in tremendous opportunities to launch a challenging and rewarding career in business. Here is a brief overview of how the program works:

The FDL program begins with a three-day leadership conference hosted by KPMG in Hollywood, CA, focused on preparing high-potential students with the skills and perspective to be the business leaders of tomorrow.

Upon successful completion of this leadership conference, each participant will receive a $1,000 scholarship and an opportunity to interview for a summer internship in our "trainee program" the following year. This first internship will give participants a head start into "Corporate America," providing rotational opportunities through our job shadow program and a mentoring relationship with a KPMG professional. In addition, participants will be mentored by one of our FDL faculty advisers.

Upon successful completion of your first internship, you will receive another internship offer to continue in our trainee program. You will then be eligible to receive up to an additional $5,000 in scholarship dollars, until you reach the summer before graduation.

During the final summer of the program, participants will enter our "Practice Internship," where they will gain actual hands-on experience working with a KPMG engagement team on one of our various clients in the line of business that they have chosen.

Iwould like to say that the FDL conference not only allowed me to become friends with amazing young individuals that are as driven as me, but it also enabled me to envision what my future could look like. With the advice from and the interaction with all the professionals from KPMG, I could really see myself fitting in as if we were all family. I loved that about KPMG and about FDL. Everyone was incredibly friendly and it was such a great learning experience! If I could do that every summer, I would, and I will definitely recommend the future classes to apply because it is something that no one should miss out on! Thank you for the opportunity, KPMG!
